Trio Aeolienne.

The coming of the Trio Aeolienne on Monday, April 26th, at the Chamber of Commerce may be regarded as one of the most important musical events of the season, and the only one in its class.

The three artists composing it are men who long ago made important places for themselves in the world of music, both as soloists as essential factors in certain of the larger musical units.

Richard Czerwonsky, violinist, has not only been concert master of some of the leading orchestras in the country, as well as the founder and leader of Boston's Famous Czerwonsky Quartet, but he also is known from coast to coast as a recital artist of first quality. He has gained a supplementary reputation as a composer, through some very charming works for the violin.

Among the great 'cellists illustrious enough to have had their names cited in international annals of music there is Bruno Steidel, the second member of the trio. His record is a long, unbroken one of brilliant performance, and musicianship of the very highest quality, whether in solo or ensemble work.

M. Boguslawski, the young Polish pianist who completes the group is one of the phenomenally talented and cultivated young artists who seem to come more often, perhaps, from the Slavic countries than from any other one section of the world. His playing has been the joy of critics and layety alike, since it combines the gifts of temperament and imagination with a superb technical medium through which to express them.

The Trio Aeolienne has a large repertoire, embracing all the better known, as well as some of the less frequently heard chamber music classics.

The Women of Beth-El Come Forward

An occasion long to be remembered was the luncheon given by the Ladies Auxiliary of Temple Beth-El to the ladies of the Temple Wednesday noon at the Metropolitan Hotel. It was a sort of "get together" meeting for the ladies to discuss the ways and means of raising money to furnish the magnificent new Temple which is under construction. The honor guests were Rabbi Rothstein of Pine Bluff, Ark., Rabbi George Fox, Messrs. H. Lederman, Louis Morris, Sam Joseph, U. M. Simon and Grandma Carb. Mrs. Dan Brown, who is chairman of the committee from the Ladies' Auxiliary presided graciously as toastmistress. Splendid talks were made by the gentlemen present and by Mrs. J. Goldgraber, U. M. Simon, H. H. Miller, Louis Morris and so much enthusiasm was aroused that when donations were called for at the close of the luncheon more than $5000 was raised. Mr. Joseph, chairman of the building committee, announced that the pews had been selected and the Ladies' Auxiliary was prepared to meet the first payment of $1809.00 for same. Plans for a big street carnival were discussed, same to be given early in May, when it is expected to raise a large sum of money for the cause.

Brethren:

Centuries have passed before the Jewish race gained the recognition of their historic title to Palestine, and the recognition of their right to reconstitute Palestine as their national home. Now it is almost a fact that Palestine will be placed under such political, administrative and economic conditions as will secure the establishment there of the Jewish national home, which will ultimately render possible the creation of an autonomous commonwealth.

Now Palestine is waiting for the creative energies of the Jewish people in all fields of enterprise. There are many serious needs at this moment and the constructive abilities of Jewry both in Palestine and the diaspora will be put to test.

The Jews of Fort Worth and its vicinities are now put to this test. Our quota is $20,000. We have to raise every cent of it if we want to set the foundation of a future Jewish homeland. Every cent that will be lacking from this quota will weaken the strength and lessen the endurance of the foundation of the future Jewish homeland.

Ransoming a Jew has always been considered the most important com-
